Pertinent Paragraphs

We are wondering what is wrong with our real estate men. We understand all right that superlatives used in the past might hamper them today. We could not figure out the difference in attitude between reporters and real estate men.

We might have hit on one reason for this when interviewing the Telephone Company representative. It appears that there is such a thing as priority (even in the cold war) for newspaper men, but not for real estate men.

It seems newspaper men are enjoying special privileges. Newspaper men have been accused of being war mongers by a large portion of our population. The only recognition they received as having helped to win a war was a simple letter of thanks from some obscure official thanking them for "free" publicity in helping to put over the top Red Cross Drives, War Bond Campaigns, etc.

When we consider the real estate men, there is a different story. Right now in the "cold war" real estate men have done more to help win the war than enybody else. We all know that increased production, be it agricultural or industrial, is the key for winning the war. Real estate men, no doubt are laying the foundation for this increased production.

Now, considering fantastic claims made in the past, we ask "Can they be too fantastic?" We seem to be able to produce anything we want to produce.

We understand that some real estate men feel bad for having called our district the "banana belt."

We don't know much about the year around climate of the different sections of Lemon Grove.

We know only what we have seen these past few months. And we must report what we have seen. We cannot ask our readers to believe what we are saying. We only report to encourage interest and to get our readers to express their opinions in letters to the editor.

Living on Skyline Drive, we have these past two months watched the banana blooms every day. We saw the fruit developing and still our real estate men did not rave about it. We showed the blooms to newspaper brokers. They seem to be swarming around yet. We took a newspaper broker around last week again. Facts are facts. The fact that we have the mildest climate might be obscured by referring to the banana belt. Is that it?

To punish ourselves for others' faults, is superlative folly. The mental arrow shot from another's bow is practically harmless, unless our own thought barbs it.
—Mary Baker Eddy

GUEST SPEAKERS

At tonight's dinner meeting of the Lemon Grove Lions Club, officials of the First National Bank will be guest speakers.

Considerable interest has been aroused by the decision of the First National Bank to open a branch in Lemon Grove. For this reason officials of the Lions Club have extended an invitation to the Bank to send representatives to this meeting. This invitation was gratefully accepted.

Arrangements have been made for a large turnout of members. Invitations were also extended to those who were in any way responsible for providing banking facilities for Lemon Grove.

Due to limited accomodations and to enable the caterers to provide for the enlarged attendance all Lions have been asked to phone the secretary to secure reservations for themselves and their guests before making arrangements to attend. Phone H6-0198.

Sound is Improved At Cinema Dine

Another Lemon Grove First is the Cinema-Dine. More than that, it is unique. And it has the most natural setting.

The manager, Mr. Ira Durham, announces considerable improvements being made this year. Grounding of wires has been the biggest difficulty in the past. This has now been overcome.

The Cinema-Dine is the only one of its kind in the world; one may sit in his car and order through the direct communication system, any kind of sandwich, malt, soda or soft drink he may desire. In fact, practically anything in the food line is available.

The arrangement of parking space is in a bowl shape so that one can sit back and relax while enjoying the show.

Youth Symphony In Successful Presentation

The Youth Symphony concert, played April 19 in Russ Auditorium, was a source of pride to the orchestra's sponsors, the City Recreation Department; to the founder-director, Leo Shearer, and to many friends of the orchestra who value it as an outlet for our young musicians

The Youth Symphony offers valuable orchestral experience and useful preparation for those planning to play later in professional orchestras. By their enthusiasm last night and their comradeship in music, the Youth Symphony players expressed their appreciation of the opportunities offered by the City and by the conductor who has given so much time and effort to its cause.

Among those from Lemon Grove, who took part in the concert were: Tony Higgins, music major at the State College, who played the clarinet; and Miss Betty Aspe, Spring Valley, a member of the Grossmont High School Orchestra, who played the cello.

'WORDS AND MUSIC' MARKS TENTH FILM REUNION FOR GARLAND AND ROONEY

Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney, who a few years ago were classsmates in the school on the M-G-M lot, make their tenth screen appearance together in "Words and Music," Technicolor musical based on the lives and music of Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart. The new hit attraction opens next Tuesday, May 3-4-5, at the Grove Theatre.

The popular team previously scored together in "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry," "Love Finds Andy Hardy," "Babes in Arms," "Andy Hardy Meets Debutante," "Strike up the Band," "Life Begins for Andy Hardy," "Babes on Broadway" "Girl Crazy" and "Thousands Cheer."

In their latest picture they sing and dance to the memorable Rodgers-and-Hart song, "I Wish I Were in Love Again."

Others in the galaxy of stars seen in "Words and Music" are June Allyson, Perry Como, Lena Horne, Gene Kelly and Ann Sothern, with Tom Drake, Cyd Charisse, Betty Garrett, Janet Leigh, Marshall Thompson, Mel Torme and Vera Ellen.

COMMUNITY CENTER NEWS

According to a reply given by Mr. Ted Haaf at last Thursday's Lions Meeting, work will start on the Lemon Grove Community Center as soon as the engineers have completed the plans.

Title to the lots has been received from Mr. Sonka. Mr. Chris Ferguson is ready to go ahead as soon as plans are received. Mr. J. Gilbert Durham, who has also offered his time and equipment free of charge, is ready to go ahead as soon as the all clear sign is given by the engineers.

The money is on hand to buy all the building material required. Donations of cash and labor are now called to finish the job.

A. E. Donnelly will donate his services for the plumbing work; S. G. Cato for the electrical work. C. Forrest Baxter and Bob Schnick for the sheet metal work. J. W. Mulder offered the committee $50. cash or 5 days labor at the option of the committee. A. P. Schnell offered $100. cash instead of labor as the building is progressing. Other cash donations have been received and many offers from tradesmen for free labor. We will report more details in this regard in our next issue. There are offers to do lathing, plastering, carpentering, roofing, welding, painting, etc.

And what is still more important, some of these good people have offered to give cash instead of labor, if present plans are not providing for their services. Arrangements are now being made to secure cash instead of materials purchased, as some supply houses are offering materials for the Center at less than wholesale prices. It is expected that county officials will credit these reductions as cash donations for the construction expense.

THIS AND THAT

by Dr. Frank Weege, D. C.

Second Principle: Man can be properly nourished only by natural food. Food that has perpetuated the human race for thousands of years must be dependable for the nourishment of man. Science has not yet succeeded in making artificial or synthetic food. We are still dependent wholly upon the products of nature for our sustenance. When we tamper with these products we do so at our peril. If intentionally or inadvertently some of the essential vital elements needed to sustain life's processes are removed, we have not true food but a defective product that will not sustain the highest forms of life and vitality.

Our foods should be consumed with all their natural elemental constituents. No particle of their elemental value should be removed or destroyed. We should strive to have as large a proportion of our diet as possible composed of fresh unaltered foods in the form in which they are grown.

We should make it our business to find out whether any of the changes and processes through which foods are put before they reach us, have been such as to impair their nutritional worth and vital qualities. Foods that are so changed should be rejected.

Third Principle: Over eating is adult civilized man's most common dietary error. Food taken in excess of the body's actual needs is worse than wasted. It turns to poisons and overtaxes the organs of elimination. It is also a needless burden on digestion, since nature provides only enough digestive juices to handle the foods the body needs. A man thinks he needs to eat to keep his strength. And if he thinks he has lost his appetite he goes to the doctor and asks for a tonic or something that will help him find it again. It never occurs to him that by missing a few meals his appetite will come back with all its youthful vigor.

Fourth Principle: Two meals a day are sufficient for the man or woman at light work. The three-meal-a-day habit is a species of dietary slavery that sends many people to premature graves. People sit down to three meals a day merely because this was the habit of their hard-working pioneer forefathers.

There is no more erroneous, pernicious doctrine than the belief that three full meals a day are necessary. Far from being essential to health they are often destructive to it. If a person is doing manual labor or any type of work that requires considerable energy then perhaps three full meals a day are necessary. We must remember that the food demands of the body vary according to circumstances, and our appetites are given us to enable us to govern our food supply according to their varying needs.

Meals at regular hours are a convenience in the world of business and family life, but they have no foundation in nature. Hunger and the availability of foods are the only natural factors that govern the eating habits of animals. Man might be better off if he ate the same way. The number of meals a day should be a matter of individual choice, and even then there can be no hard and fast rule.

Fifth Principle: Fasting is an important health restoring and health preserving measure. This is guaranteed to bring back an appetite that will not only enable you to enjoy your food but will insure proper digestion and assimilation. Do not make the mistake of forcing an appetite. Wait for it! It will do the human good to draw upon the reserve nutrients stored within the body at least once a week. In disease physical culturists hold fasting to be a valuable curative measure and for many years advocated its use for medical purposes. The prejudice against it does not rest upon real evidence, but is due to the fact that it is at variance with conventional opinion.

Sixth Principle: One should not eat too many kinds of foods at a meal. Man not only eats too much and too frequently but his meals are too complicated. We may need a variety of food to secure a variety of food elements but we should get the variety from meal to meal and not try to eat everything at every meal. It has been proven there is a certain amount of special adaptation of the digestive juices to the specific purpose of digesting the different types of foods. Obviously, there will be a lesser degree of perfection in such adaptation of digestive juices when too wide a variety of food is put into the stomach at one time.

PRIZE FILM FROM PULITZER PLAY

"The Time of Your Life", film adaptation of William Saroyan's Pulitzer and Drama Critics' Circleprize-winning play, originally produced in New York by the Theatre Guild, will open Sunday May 1st at the Grove Theatre.

The film, produced by William Cagney for United Artists release, stars James Cagney as Joe, the philosopher; William Bendix as Nick, the famed bartender; Wayne Morris as Tom, Joe's aid and devoted admirer; and Jeanne Cagney as Kitty.

It has been transferred to the screen faithfully by Hollywood's ace cinematographer, James Wong Howe, in its original setting of a San Francisco waterfront barroom and was directed by Nathaniel Curtis.

Others in the cast include Broderick Crawford, Ward Bond, James Barton, Paul Draper, Gale Page, Jimmy Lydon, Richard Erdman, Tom Powers, Natalie Schafer, Reginald Beane, Pedro de Cordoba, John Miller, Nanette Parks, Howard Freeman, Renie Riano, Claire Carleton, Gladys Blake, Marlene Aames and Lanny Rees.

Of the cast, William Bendix and Reginald Beane appeared in the original stage presentation, and it was on the strength of his performance in the play that Bendix was signed for the screen.

THEOSOPHICAL STUDY GROUP MEETING

Theosophical groups of La Mesa and Lemon Grove will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lehmann, 2660 Citronella Street, Lemon Grove, on Monday May 2, at 8 p.m. to hear a talk by Professor Allan J. Stove from International Theosophical Headquarters in Covina.

In discussing his subject "Cycles in Nature", Professor Stover will demonstrate that all nature is built upon an interweaving system of cycles within cycles. Kodachrome slides will be used to illustrate his talk. The slides include subjects from sea, snow-line, and desert; the later ones including scenes of the desert flowers this spring. Following the talk there will be a forum period for questions and answers and a general discussion of the subject presented.

Professor Stover, formerly attached to the staff of the Museum of Natural History in Balboa Park, is now professor of Natural Sciences and head of the Geology and Botany departments at the Theosophical University in Covina. He is also a member of the board of trustees at the University.

Professor Stover is the author of several books, including "Cycles of Earth History and the Ice Ages", and "Nature's Magic."

After giving a series of lectures to Theosophical groups in San Diego and vicinity, Professor Stover will return to his duties at Covina Headquarters.

A cordial welcome is extended to all who wish to hear Mr. Stover's talk.

Bob Murphy, chairman of the program committee of the Lemon Grove Business Men's Club, secured approval of the membership for a discussion on "Socialized Medicine."

At last Tuesday's breakfast meting the business men decided to secure speakers for and against the scheme of socialized medicine.

Bob has promised to have a speaker at next Tuesday's breakfast meeting.

SPRING CONCERT

The Grossmont High School Red Robe Choir, Girls Glee Club and Double Ensemble, under the direction of Mrs. Merle C. Donohue, are preparing for their annual Spring Concert, to be presented to the public May 19, in the high school auditorium. Accompanied by the school's newly acquired Hamond Organ, the vocal music groups will feature folk music, spirituals, modern and classic selections, with operetta themes added for good measure.

Special attraction of the evening will be the presentation of Fred Waring's vocal arrangement of the "Nutcracker Suite," by the choir, accompanied by double pianos, and made spectacular by the addition of colorful ballet.

General admission rate has been set at 70 cents, and curtain time will be 8:15.

BOWERY BOY WRITES

Film Star Leo Gorcey has turned writer in his spare time, and is writing an autobiography on his experiences as actor on Broadway and Hollywood. Gorcey is currently starred in Monogram's Bowery Boys comedy, "Smugglers Cove," now at the Grove theatre, April 28-29-30.

JUNE BEETLES ON YOUNG AVOCADOS

Serious damage to young avocado trees occasionally is experienced this time of year caused by June beetles and other leaf-eating beetles. The beetles work at night, and bury themselves in an inch or two of soil during the day. Young orchards near uncultivated land are most likely to be attacked.

It is possible to control them with 5 percent DDT dust applied to the tree and to the soil beneath the tree.

RETURNS FROM EXTENDED MOTOR TRIP

Mr. A. F. Sonka returned last week from an extended motor trip through Arizona, Nevada and California.

He was accompanied by a party of friends. The highlights of the trip were visits to Grand Canyon, Boulder Dam and Death Valley.

Tony was impressed with the school zones road markings and speed limit signs in Arizona. He considers them a better safety measure than California markings

Most everyone enjoys ice cream soda, sundae or "malt". Ours just can't be beat . . their delicious!! After the show or during the day drop in for your favorite fountain delight. You'll like 'em better because we make 'em better.
